Statutes

Delete from line 176 to 178:

1. Beside this, three quarts of Administrators must come from organisations members, while at least 50% of Administrators must be of women* ~~and at least three-quarters of Administrators must be younger than thirty.~~

Reason

We believe that the limit on the number of EC members older than 30 may excessively restrict the organisation, without being justified by any hard requirements (such as the age of participants for projects funded by the European Youth Foundation). There may be years when there are more quality candidates who are above 30 years of age, and rejecting them could be a loss for CDN as a whole. Similarly, there may be years when the number of candidates is insufficient, and the viable candidacy of individuals above the age limit could help constitute a functioning EC body without the need for by-elections. Age should not be a limiting factor; members should be eligible as long as they are under 35 years old. CDN should cherish the engagement of all young people and leverage their expertise to the fullest extent.
